

property insured in some reliable insurance Company, is an amount fully covering said Note, the same to be made payable to said Joseph Ellinger, as his interest shall appear, then the intention to be null and void, else to be of full force and virtue. It being made stand that a failure to pay said Note when the same become due respectively and said interest according to the tenor thereof shall work a forfeiture of this instrument.

And upon such default, said Ellinger or his assigns shall have the right to foreclose the instrument and all unpaid upon any or all of said Note shall then be deemed due and owing and said property subject to foreclosure for the collection and payment of the same. And said R.S. and W.G. Robinson hereby agree that in the event of a foreclosure they will pay unto said Ellinger or his assigns, all costs, and reasonable attorney fees for such proceeding, the same to be included in and with and covered by the mortgage in witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 9th day of June A.D. 1892
